Last evening a meeting in the interests of the Sioux Mission was held in St. Paul's church. Several selections of excellent music were rendered by the choir. A solo by Miss Hosson deserves special mention. The chairman, Rev. Mr. Stevenson, gave a short account of the origin and progress of the mission. Rev. D. J. Macdonell was the speaker of the evening. His address on the Church of the Future was listened to with great attention and unflinching interest. After a few preliminary remarks, in words of eloquence and power, the speaker described the ideal at which the church should aim. Unity in thought and feeling with a tolerance for a diversity of method is a desirable essential, adaptation to the changed social condition is required, but still the good and the true in the old are not to be abandoned. Missionary effort is the work which will most rapidly hasten this desirable condition, and to this end we should direct our energies. After a collection on behalf of the mission, the meeting closed with the benediction.

The following are the names of the gentlemen who came with our emigration agent, Mr. W. Miller, to see and judge of the Prince Albert district for themselves:—Levi Stauffer, Christian B. Snyder, Waterloo; Henry Brubacher, E. Ziegler, Wm. Moodie, Eli Clemmer, Jos. Binghamman, Matt Durrant, Alex. Peterson, Sam E. Moyer, Jos. Shantz, P. E. W. Moyer, A. Webber, Jacob Clemmens, Berini Isaac Groh, Hespeler; Alex. Glenie, Menno Bricker, Conestoga; Peter Glenie, Henry Hamilton, David S. Clemmens, Wm. Houghton, Solomon Erb, John F. McKay, Bloomingdale; Jas. Taylor, Moaborough; Jno. Shub, Geo. Deppisch, Hawksville.

Rev. D. J. Macdonell, of Toronto, Dr. Warden, of Montreal, and the Rev. Mr. Hamilton, of Whitewood, arrived here on Monday last. Mr. Macdonell will conduct the services in St. Paul's church on Sunday next.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 5, 1890.

THE QUESTION IS SETTLED.

Some considerable anxiety exists in the minds of eastern newspaper men respecting the fate in store for each of the two great political parties of our Dominion, all owing it seems, to the singular absence of great men in the present parliament, to come to the front as leaders. They forget that "business makes men" and that when a leader is required, some individual will be found equal to the occasion. A most amusing feature of the discussion is that those most anxious are daily suggesting names of able men, in every respect competent, for the serious public duties parliament imposes. One section is found demanding that Erastus Winman, the great tariff reformer, shall leave his present remunerative and comfortable domicile, within the domains of Uncle Sam, and fatten for a time on the spoils provided for the leader of a Canadian opposition. Another element is hard at work trying to convince reformers generally that Mr. Blake only requires a little pressure and he would again crowd his leader out and assume control of the party once more; and yet another branch, the most faithful of all, are found holding Mr. Laurier up as the white flower of perfection, while a strictly Western Ontario element, are heard lisping the name of the plumed knight, Sir Richard, as the proper man to undertake the almost hopeless task, of giving for the party that access to the Dominion sop they have so long worked and worried for. The discussion still goes on, and old Sir John gently glides along, giving little heed to the troubles and divisions of his political foes or their anxiety respecting the awful wreck in store for his faithful followers, when age or failing health compels him to quit the ship. Kindly anxiety no doubt, which should be relieved, and knowing how easily the whole question has been settled, we feel that no confidence is being violated, in advising our contemporaries to go slow. Any of the changes yet suggested will not be made, at least for some time. We are on the inside circle, and know whereof we speak. Mr. Laurier will for years retain the position he is so well fitted to grace, and Sir John has decided that as long as health and strength holds out he will continue to lead his party and the Dominion Parliament. Two great men have found the positions they were specially endowed by nature to occupy and they will continue to hold them. Sir John, a wonderful man, at the head of a government, and after many years still controlling the development of his country. Mr. Laurier, also a wonderful man, at the head, (and possessing most of the brains) of an opposition, watching daily the triumphs of his opponent and wondering, all the time, how in thunder he manages things so well.

The fact that two important Government institutions are needed in our district and that circumstances combine to entitle our having them, has been noted by us on several occasions. Both an experimental farm and an industrial school should be established in our midst without further delay. Like farms established in other portions of the country have already done a good work, but it is important that their good influences be extended to every quarter, and this the Central Fertile Belt should not longer be left without their advantages. Our immigration committee have already made a request in this direction, and Mr. Macdowell has ably backed up their petition by personal interviews and correspondence; Mr. Robertson has booked himself to deliver a lecture here under the auspices of the Lorne Agricultural Society. Now is their opportunity. A map will show him the advantages of our location. Let him see the surrounding country and its variety of resources, and there should be little need for our further pressing upon him, as a government officer, the justice of our demands. An industrial school, as pointed out by us a few weeks ago, is equally important and is asked with equal justice. The situation of our Indian population is such, that people taking an interest in their advancement have long seen the advantage such an institution would prove in assisting their civilization efforts, and have frequently urged on the Government the necessity of one being established in our midst. Steps should be taken towards making a unanimous public appeal to the Government on this important question. Action of such a nature would go far in securing the desired object.

The School Board has not yet decided to publish the estimates on which was based the enormous grant asked from the Town Council. We have no desire to see the Board placed in any false position, but the amount of money they have demanded seems out of all proportion to the wants of our district, and we have felt justified in asking them, on several occasions, to publish a statement. They have either neglected, or purpose refusing ratepayers any such information, and if they now stand in a bad light before the public they have only themselves to blame. Two or three important questions in connection with their administration have already received pretty straight criticism from the taxpayer, but as yet no defence has been offered, and now the public have become satisfied that no reasonable excuse for their actions can be forthcoming. Six thousand dollars is a pretty big pill for ratepayers to swallow, and the Board don't purpose to sugar coat it either, at least not before the next annual meeting. We mistake the present feeling of the electors if it does not strongly argue a pretty severe shaking up for those trustees whose term of office expires at the end of the present year. Our people have always shown a disposition to be liberal with their public officers, but they will stand nothing that smacks of jobbery or lack of interest in school affairs.

The true inwardness of the whole transaction is slowly coming to the surface. The special patent inside emigration edition, supposed to have been issued by the towns only general manager of joint stock companies, seems to have shrunk to an ordinary four page publication by the time it reached eastern points. The circumstance is worth looking into. We are satisfied a sixteen page issue was expected when subscriptions and contracts were being solicited by the editor. In fact we believe a paper containing that number of pages was circulated, in the town.

It must appear to our Town Council, as it does to the public and to strangers visiting the town, that we stand much in need of some improvements. We require good sidewalks to the railway station, the churches, public schools, and elsewhere. Some of the streets require grading, and better drainage is required. We require a Town Hall and better fire protection. These things we did not so much require in the past, but now they are becoming absolute necessities. To make all these improvements will require money, which reasonably implies taxation. The assessment of the town is at present about $800,000 and under the Municipal Ordinance about $10,000 could be raised on the credit of the municipality. About half that amount, or say at the outside $25,000, would suffice for all the improvements required for a year or two. That sum should be raised by debentures and action should be taken by the Council in that direction forthwith. Even if the by-law were introduced now, it would be spring before the debentures could be floated and work commenced. The Council should not be afraid to take the responsibility of introducing such a by-law and submitting it to the ratepayers, who may pass or reject it as they see fit, and on them will rest the responsibility.

IMPORTANT MEETING

On Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. a very large assemblage of our citizens took place in the Town Hall for the purpose of meeting the delegates from the county of Waterloo, Ont., and hearing their views as to the adaptability of this district for agricultural and other pursuits, and the general impressions they had formed regarding the country. D. H. Macdowall, M.P., was appointed chairman of the meeting and W. R. Gunn, secretary.

Mr. Macdowall in a short but very fine speech stated the objects of the meeting. He said that no doubt all present felt as he did, that which had been in the past a great obstacle to immigration to this district—the want of a railway—had now been removed, and now that the cars were running into and out of Prince Albert we might not only expect to get large numbers of immigrants, but also a ready access to Eastern markets for our produce; in the past we had to look to the north for a market, and got a good one; wheat then sold for $2 per bushel. The construction of the C.P.R. to the south had not been to our immediate advantage, as it had interfered with our market. The delegates who were present with us to-night came into Prince Albert in the first car to arrive in town, and they came under good auspices for us, and were representative of the class of settlers that we want to get; we want to get those who have to make new homes for themselves, and are hard working, honest, industrious and practical farmers. When we sent Mr. Miller to Ontario, it was to get just such a delegation to visit the district as we had with us to-night. We were not afraid of the report they will give to those who sent them, and believe that it will result in many of the young men of Ontario coming here instead of going to the United States to look for homes. We do not want the gentlemen who are with us to-night to do anything but give a fair and true account of the country. If they can speak well of it, it would be greatly to our advantage. Mr. Macdowall concluded by inviting the delegates to express their opinions to the meeting, but Mr. Stauffer asked the meeting to wait a few minutes until the arrival of their president, Mr. J. F. McKay, of Bloomington, Ont.

The chairman called upon Mr. T. McKay, who said that he was very much pleased to see a large number of the representative farmers of Ontario present. It had cost us a good deal of money to get this excursion up, but it was money well spent and we must expect to spend more in order to make our district known abroad. People looking for homes generally follow existing lines of railway and as until now we had none, we got very few new settlers. Those that had come here in the past were induced to do so by their friends who had come in years ago when it was believed the C.P.R. would run through this part of the Territories. He said it was not our wish to decry any other portion of the Territories, but we had as good a country as anyone. We must make its many advantages known, and there need be no fear of the result. He regretted that we had not more time to take the delegates around the country and to entertain them in a more suitable manner than we had done, but owing to the movements of trains we would have to forego that pleasure until some future occasion, which it was hoped would not be far off. He concluded by assuring the delegates that we had an unlimited extent of just as good land as any they had yet seen, and expressed the hope that they would return.

Mayor Knowles was the next speaker, but did not occupy the time of the meeting long, much to the regret of those who know his ability and the great interest he takes in the public welfare. He pointed out that large numbers of the young men, farmers' sons of Ontario, go every year to the United States looking for homes, while in the Northwest, and especially in the Saskatchewan district, we could give them better homes than they could possibly get south of the international boundary.

On behalf of the delegates, Mr. John F. McKay next addressed the meeting. He said that he was not a good speaker but had not proceeded far before it became patent to all that he was not only such, but that he knew whereof he spoke. His experience in Prince Albert had been good and bad and indifferent, but indifferent so far as the weather was concerned, but good as to everything else. There were many things that pleased him very much. He was very much pleased with the chairman. He was good looking and affable, and indeed all the people seemed to be good looking and good. He could only speak of the country from observation. On Monday he and others had visited the Gordon farm on the South Branch and found the soil to be of the very finest quality, the scenery was grand and there was abundance of hay, wood and water. On John Smith's Indian reserve in the same locality, they had seen the best wheat in the Northwest, and a prettier spot did not exist anywhere. At Red Deer Hill they had seen better land; the country was not so broken and it was easier to get a large field in one stretch. He was not one of the largest farmers in Ontario. Where he came from one hundred acres was considered a large farm. Not so here, where it was possible to get and where there were several hundred and even thousand acres in a farm. The rule in Ontario was small farms and large family; here it was the reverse. He regretted to see so many bachelor farmers when they had so many good looking girls in Ontario. He had to thank every one for their kindness and would say that the report of the delegates would be all in favor of Prince Albert and surrounding country and would be certain to turn people in this direction, where they would do well. He pointed out that the Menonites who settled in Manitoba and the N.W.T., were doing better than those who had gone to the United States. He never had any idea of the great extent of the Canadian Territories. It was a great country, and he felt that some day it must be settled up with a Canadian people and become independent. The growth of Canada must be felt, lead to that end. In concluding his remarks the speaker referred again to Red Deer Hill and the beautiful and enchanting views to be obtained from its summit. The park like appearance of the surrounding country almost made him believe that he was among the orchards of Ontario, so similar did the scene appear to the eye.

Mr. Bingham, Berlin, next spoke. This visit to Prince Albert, he said, had given him great pleasure. After a brief reference to the past history of Canada and the struggles of the early settlers in Quebec and Ontario, he said that he came here with opinions formed. He had formed the opinion that this was a good district. Mr. Miller had told them so and now that they had seen the district, or part of it, they found that all Mr. Miller said was perfectly true, and that he could have given it higher praise and still kept within the truth. It is indeed a magnificent country, possessing all the advantages of beauty of situation, richness of soil, good water and abundance of wood and hay. They had not seen such luxuriant vegetation anywhere in the Northwest. The grain was the best they had seen and the gardens were something astonishing. On the first day of his drive around he was a little disappointed; the land they saw was too much broken by little lakes. He did not like so many lakes, but to-day he went in another direction and saw a country to gladden the eye and heart of man. Most of the land near town was occupied or had owners, but there was just as good land, and abundance of it, still open to settlement, affording room for thousands. He and the other delegates would long remember the hospitality and kindness extended to them all over. He finished a very fine speech by reciting "What Constitutes a State," and some appropriate remarks on the duty of Canadians towards their country and themselves.

The chairman next called upon Mr. Jas. Taylor, who said he was not a farmer but was engaged in stock raising, and found this district admirably suited to that business; he was very much pleased with our rich pasturage and the abundance of natural grasses for hay. He thought that Prince Albert had made a wise selection in Mr. Miller, as an immigration agent; he had worked hard for the place and had been very successful.

Mr. Shantz being called upon also expressed his pleasure with the district. He had just returned from a two-days drive through the Shell River and Snake Plain country, where he found soil which could not be surpassed in richness. A large extent of good timber, land and plenty of sand, gravel and stone; there was also a large extent of excellent grazing land and hay land. He said that he could report it ahead of anything he had seen so far anywhere in the Territories.

Mr. Donratt said, as the ground had been pretty well gone over by his brother delegates there was very little left for him to say, and as he had been very little out of town since their arrival he did not see as much of the country as the others had. But he had been out a few miles and could endorse all that had been already said. He was sorry to see so many good farms unoccupied and grown over with weeds—however he had seen no Canadian thistle or wild mustard. He had visited Mr. Plaxton's farm and never saw better wheat in his life than he did there; he saw a house with a thatched roof, and was surprised to learn that it kept out the rain. All the previous speakers had praised the land and the country and he felt that it merited every word that was said. He had seen a herd of cattle that surprised him, the calves were immense; in fact everything he set his eyes on was good.

Mr. Shuh followed and spoke of the object the delegation had in coming to the Northwest and of the energy displayed by our agent, Mr. Miller. The C.P.R. had given them good rates and they came to look for homes for their young men; they had been as far west as Calgary and had seen good land in many places, but none as good as in this district; it more resembled the land in Ontario. From ten to twenty families leave my district every year and we hope in the future to settle them here. The county of Waterloo has settled fully 18,000 people in Manitoba, and there are many more looking for new homes who may come here. This land we consider the best for grain and stock raising, and if we can get our people to settle here it will be a good thing for them and the district and there is no reason why we cannot make it a good country.

Mr. Stauffer said that the question to-night had been ably stated and had been so completely thrashed out that it reminded him of the Irishman's bird. "Pat was out shooting and saw a bird on a limb; after taking a careful aim he fired, but was surprised to see that the bird did not fly away, nor was he on the limb. After looking about under the tree some time he started up a toad; Björbers says Pat, I shot the feathers clean off him." He had read a great deal about Manitoba and the N.W.T., but reading of them was like the Queen of Sheba who had heard so much of the wisdom of Solomon that she determined to go and see for herself and found when she got there that the half had never been told her. So it was with this country, if you want to know its capabilities and resources you must come out and see it. The C.P.R. had done very much for the delegates and they had been highly entertained by the people while here. They had found good land at Moose Jaw, Regina, Calgary, and Prince Albert. The land at Prince Albert will suit the people of Waterloo better than any other on account of the bush. The soil of Prince Albert cannot be excelled. The land is perhaps too rich, but nevertheless it is good for grain raising. I may say that I am well pleased with your district. Before taking my seat I beg to move that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to the people of Prince Albert for their free transportation and hospitality to us while here, also to the Immigration Committee, Supt. Perry, Mr. Macdowall and Mr. Clarke for their kindness and hospitality.

This resolution was duly seconded and carried by a standing vote of the delegates, who gave three cheers for the people of Prince Albert.

Mr. Alexander of Moose Jaw said he was not a delegate but a Dominion Immigration Agent, that he had no desire to praise Moose Jaw although that was his home, and that he could agree with the remarks he had heard made by the delegates. He came here as a Dominion Immigration Agent and thought that he had done good; he had heard reports in Moose Jaw detrimental to this district, but saw now that they were not true. When he returned he would give a honest report of Prince Albert and it would be a good one. He would say you can get any kind of land you wish.

Mr. A. Spence, president of the Lorne Agricultural Society, and Mr. T. McKay each made short speeches, after which Mayor Knowles moved the following resolution:—"That this meeting desires to express their confidence in the representative character of the delegates from the good old township of Waterloo, and to thank them for their visit here and for the very complimentary remarks made by the various speakers." Seconded by T. McKay and carried unanimously.

Dr. Jardine moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Miller for his valuable services as immigration agent. Seconded by Thos. McKay and carried unanimously. Mr. Miller replied, briefly acknowledging the same.

Mr. Buckley moved a vote of thanks to the chairman, which was given. Three rousing cheers for Mr. Macdowall, which showed that his popularity is not on the wane, and three for the Queen and Canada brought a very instructive and profitable meeting to a close.

While a meeting of citizens and the Waterloo delegates—which was an important event in itself—was in progress on Tuesday night, a still more important one occurred, namely the arrival at the Prince Albert station of the first through train from the main line of the C. P. R. Only a few citizens turned out to meet it as the majority were in attendance at the meeting. There were on board among others, Judge McGuire, returning from a holiday trip east, James Ross and family, H. S. Holt and Mrs. Wm. McKenzie and family. The last named except Mrs. McKenzie returned on Friday.
